

ABSTRACT

5 Gas cylinder with two concentric bodies and an intermediate chamber, with a control rod and gas passage valve that withstands multidirectional drive action, enabling the drive action on an area that resembles a semi-sphere and with the direction in which the executing force of the control action is applied proving immaterial, as it can be either on the rod itself or on a device attached to its end with a blind hole or through hole.